OUR SATURDAY NIGHT.

The following letter will be read with interest by many anxious mothers, because the source of information is so reliable, and because it touches so many points of interest which have not been fully understood. It is gratifying to know that our boys in France are giving a good account of themselves, and that their moral as well as their physical welfare is receiving attention. The letter is well worth a careful reading.

Bishop F. J. McConnell of the Methodist Episcopal church, has just returned from a three months' visit to the American and French fronts, and a part of the British front in France. After viewing conditions on the allied battle fronts Bishop McConnell says: "I consider the Centenary movement of our church the most important and hopeful suggestion thus far made for the world's reconstruction after the war." The Methodist Episcopal church is celebrating the Centenary of Methodist missions by framing a world program with the express purpose of conserving the results of the war.

Bishop McConnell describes the morale of the American forces and the conditions over there as follows:

"When over in France I had the impression that everything was going all right," said Bishop McConnell. "Since I landed in New York I was told that everything had gone wrong, that we had a miserable handful of troops over there, badly provided for and that we were not doing our part well. I am very happy to be able to say if this is true the people in France don't know it.

"If you could stand as I have stood at a seaport in France and great American soldiers, and if you could see three converted Hamburg-American liners loaded as American transports with sixteen thousand soldiers on each ship, you might get the impression that something was happening. And if you knew that this same thing was occurring in two other ports, you might well know that America is really sending over her troops. I was in twenty-eight different places speaking to American soldiers and I got the impression that there were a good many of them there, and that all are being well taken care of.

"I ate with the private soldiers. We had beefsteak, potatoes, white bread and butter, and coffee with sugar and milk in it. For dessert there was rice with raisins cooked in it. You wouldn't call that starvation, would you?

"Many people told me that the American army was a dejected army—wished to go back home and that they had no spirit. I looked for pessimism. I went one time to an evacuation hospital just back of the American sector, and asked: 'Please show me the worst case you have here.' They took me to see McGonnigal. As his name might imply, he was not a man to be bound down closely by military procedure. They gave him a hand grenade, which requires quick action. McGonnigal pulled the pin out and then looked around for a place to throw it. He landed in the hospital with both arms gone and the rest of him badly damaged. I talked to him and then asked: 'What would like most to see when you get well again?' He answered: 'Well, if it could be arranged before I go back, I'd like nothing better than another chance in the trenches.'

"Later I went to a ruined village and talked with some soldiers seated around a fire, their gas masks in position, all ready to go into the trenches. I stopped to see what they were talking about. Were they talking about death and general desolation? No, they were engaged in an argument as to which is the best kind of a woman to marry, the country woman or the city woman.

"One night I was permitted to go to a sort of resting place for raiders coming out of the trenches, a kind of a combination of earthen dugout and wooden hut. I went up and began to talk to the boys and they told me that they were blue. I asked if they were homesick. They said, 'Not exactly.' They told me that they had been over in No Man's Land and couldn't catch a German. All they had for their heavy work was one German rifle and a bundle of German newspapers, and so the men were dejected. But that is not the kind of pessimism that you could charge up to the American army.

"Perhaps you think I am painting this picture of war as all rosy, but it is not. I heard only one band play in France while I was there, and that was a band of Scotch pipers. You see this is not a band playing war. I never saw so many different kinds of mud in my life. Nor have I ever felt rain which had such a penetrating kind of cold as over there, but all those things are accepted as part of war, and I heard no one complaining.

"The American soldiers are bringing two things to the war. The first is a quick-wittedness, and the second a spirit of good humor and a kind of helpfulness that is going to be of great benefit.

"When I was on the British front one of the officers told me that it had been the custom to send the young American artillery officers up to those of the British soldiers who had had training in actual battle. He said, 'That is, we mapped out a careful training which took six weeks, but do you know that there has never been a man here yet who has not finished that in ten days.'

"After a raid on the front, northwest of Toul, a German was brought back of the American lines. When he finally came to he began to wonder what had happened to him for all his buttons were gone. The Americans took him down to the evacuation hospital and gave him good medical attention. The men found out that he could play an accordion so they found one and gave it to him. When this German prisoner saw that everyone was kind to him, he wept and said that he had been told that as soon as the Americans got him they would rush at him with jackknives and kill him.

"Later on I was at the funeral service of a young German boy. The chaplain said, 'This boy is just a youngster, we are not fighting him,' and so the same kind of a burial service as is given to our own Americans was accorded the young German.

"When you hear about how the American soldiers are being demoralized by drink, you just discount that. I visited twenty-eight different places and saw only one case of drunkenness. You can also discount all those rumors about vice, too. The American authorities are doing everything they can to deal with that circumstance and are doing excellent work. I had a fine talk with General Pershing before I left and he said, 'The one thing that we want most to do is just to get rid of all the evils that might be a danger to the American boys we have over here.'

"I must say a word about the sailors. They are giving a splendid account of themselves. They have a dash that I think no other sailors can surpass.

"The French are the people of the future. By their own statements one million three hundred thousand Frenchmen have been killed. I talked with a Frenchman, a public man, down at American headquarters. He had lost eight sons, killed in battle. And the way the French have stood their losses has been perfectly amazing.

"The French women are looking after the crops. You see no signs of despair among them at all. However, there is one thing the French will do. They will fight until the last German is driven off their soil.

"I stood one night opposite the road up which troops were marching by the hundreds to take their places in the trenches. The impression was most uncanny, in its effect of a certain unconquerable might in the way they carried themselves. They simply cannot be conquered.

"The great genius of this war has been French from the beginning. The best railroad man in the United States has said that the way the French have handled their railroad situation is simply beyond understanding. Indeed everybody admits the supremacy of the French in this war.

"Then there are soldiers there from the other side of the world, the Indian soldiers that we do not hear so much about. I mean those soldiers, between sixty and one hundred thousand of them in the fighting lines about which Germany raised such a howl and said we were turning loose brutes to fight them. They are just as well behaved as any of the German, French or English soldiers.

"There are Christian Indians on that West front. They have their prayer meetings, sometimes five hundred in attendance, and they do not need any roving bishop or minister to lead them either. Tommy looked at them one time when five hundred Indians were at their prayer meeting and he turned to me and said, 'Ain't it paralyzing!'

"I also saw Chinese soldiers, about sixty thousand of them, going into the trenches to fight. They may not be dressed in the slickest of uniforms, but they are there, standing the cold climate to which they are unused and fighting just as hard as any other soldiers.

"The women at the canteens and elsewhere are patient beyond description. The presence of women in the canteens will stop the grunting and also the swearing at least while they are there. There are women over there, some under thirty, who have worked at every kind of occupation. There is one I met who had been everywhere and had even nursed typhus patients. You never see any suggestion of hysteria. The American, French and English soldiers all swear by the women when it comes to thinking of their sheer devotion."

ON THE SPUR of the MOMENT

BY ROY K. MOUNTAIN

A LITTLE SLICE O' LIFE.

The other day we read a very wonderful treatise on economy, written by Prof. Pipp, of Hokum College, and he said:

"In the times it behoves one to lay by a little money for a rainy day. Conditions throughout the world are greatly unsettled. This is no account of the war, beyond doubt. So uncertain is the future of every man."

That the saving of money is essential. There is one safe and sure method of saving money. It is to put some money in the bank every week. And leave it there. Care should be taken.

That the income is always slightly in excess of the expenses. That is the way to save. This treatise was done in leather binding.

And the author is an efficiency expert. He gets a dollar and a half for his book. Still they wonder at crime.

WHAT THE BOYS ARE SINGING.

About 65,000 popular song writers in this country are discouraged. The boys in the army don't seem to care for their songs. The boys don't care for the sentimental hogwash, but get up songs of their own. Here is one of the most popular, as we heard a company singing it at Yaphank the other day:

"Oh, they put me in the army and they handed me a pack; They took away my new clothes and dined me up in kack; They marched me twenty miles a day to fit me for the war; I don't mind the first nineteen, but the last one made me sore.

Chorus: "Oh, it's not the pack you carry on your back. Nor the Springfield on your shoulder. Nor the five-inch crust of country dust That makes your limbs grow older."

"And it's not the hike on the hard turnpike That wipes away your smile. Nor the sacks of sister's 'That raise the bloomin' blisters— It's that last long mile."

We note that Miss Syrup has been married in Kansas to a Mr. Woffle, which seems to be a case of property or consanguinity or something or other, we can't think just what.

If Washington, D. C., ever adopts an anti-looting law, it will be like the end of the world to a lot of people.

German scientists are resourceful, but they have never been able to find a permanent substitute for air. The submarine menace is on the wane, and the scientists can't invent anything to make the German people believe it isn't.

The top sergeant was sitting in the front line trench talking about home. "Don't you think your wife misses you a lot, sergeant?" asked a private. "Sure, she misses me," replied the sergeant. "She can't throw this far."

The German long-distance shell travels seventy-eight miles in three minutes. Cable item. Other important information: Flaxseed poultice is good for cold on the chest.

King Menelik of Abyssinia has died seventy-six times. The highest point in Mexico is Mount Popocatepetl. Thomas Jefferson was our second red-haired president. Chewing gum was invented in 1881.

It is said Jess Willard gained eight pounds during his long training period for the Fulton (?) fight. Probably he overexerted himself. Congress wants to adjourn July 1. Well, what's to prevent? Then we will have something more to celebrate on the Fourth.

We predict that when Charlie Chaplin gets to the front, he will be the hardest man the Germans ever tried to hit. Being used to wearing a custard pie on his face, the gas mask will be only a trifling inconvenience. Charlie should make a great soldier, and he will.

The bond has got the golden wings. The war stamp has the flame. The thrift stamp has no wings at all. But it gets there just the same.

It seems reasonably certain that none of the six sons will ever die of brain fever. Just to show that the eternal fitness of things is fitting nice on all twelve cylinders, we are reminded by a contralto that Mrs. Brush runs a hair emporium in Gotham.

Would Change the Theme. Doris' mamma was reading a sad story to her when Doris said: "O mamma, read the funnies until I get the frog out of my throat."

Just Folks

By Edgar A. Guest.

A GOLFER'S WISH.

I have no wish to dress in silk, I do not care to wear a crown, I do not yearn to bathe in milk. Or champagne wash my dinner down.

I have no great desire to be a man of much importance here, And have the public welcome me With bands of brass when I appear.

And should a fairy kind and good Grant me one favor, without price, I'd make this golfer's prayer, I would: "Oh, kindly rid me of my slice!"

I am not one intent on fame. I do not care to lead the throng, Though strangers never hear my name. Contentedly I'll plod along Enough to eat, enough to wear, And strength to do my daily task.

On pleasure ways, is all I ask. But should a fairy come to me And say: "What joy will you suffice?" I'll grant one wish. What shall it be?

I'd answer, "Rid me of my slice!" You that have never swung a club And drawn its face across the ball, And muttered to yourself: "You duff!" As, in a curve, you watched it fall, May never guess the rage that lies Within the shortened arc of flight.

Nor how men use the ball that flies With loss of distance to the right; But every golfer field will know Why gold and fame I'd sacrifice If but some fairy, good, would show Me how to drive without a slice!

Who's Who In Today's News

T. W. Hardwick.

Hardwick has burned political bridges behind him in coming out natively as an anti-war candidate.

Georgia has a wide open primary, in which a plurality vote instructs a delegate convention. Howard's record on war policies is "100 per cent pure," which complicates matters.

Despite his pronounced antagonism to President Wilson's war program, Hardwick is popular. His legislative career began in the Georgia house of representatives, where he served two terms before he went to the fifty-eighth congress. He went back to the fifty-ninth, sixtieth, sixty-first, sixty-second, and was re-elected to the sixty-third. In September 1914, he was chosen to succeed A. O. Bacon in the United States senate, and November 3, 1914, was elected by the people.

L. A. MARKHAM CALLED FOR WORK IN RUSSIA

JANESVILLE MAN IS HIGHLY HONORED—ONE OF FIVE COUNTY WORKERS CHOSEN FROM THE ENTIRE COUNTRY.

TO LEAVE THIS MONTH

First Three Month in Russia Will be Used in Educational Demonstration Trip Along the Volga River.

County Agricultural Agent L. A. Markham has been called for special work among the peasants of Russia and expects to leave some time this month. Mr. Markham has just returned from New York and Washington where he was made arrangements for his departure. The offer which he has accepted is considered a very distinct honor, as he is one of five men chosen from the entire country to take the trip. E. T. Colton, prominent Y. M. C. A. worker in Russia, recently cabled from Moscow asking for five workers.

The college four men so highly honored are, State Y. M. C. A. Secretary Foster of New Hampshire; Secretary Hall, International Boys' Work secretary, and Secretaries Arnett and Terpening of state county work, both of Michigan.

The five men are being sent under the auspices of the international committee of Young Men's Christian Association with headquarters at New York. The government has endorsed the plan for the reason that it will tend to prove to Russia the value of the United States to show its friendliness. The present government of Russia is also exceedingly anxious to introduce anything that will be of value to their country. People know Russia best say that the value to Russia is perhaps the greatest one and students of the present world situation believe that even the most violent of the western front that all Germany would have to do then would be to retire into Russia and live indefinitely on the natural resources of that great empire. Something evidently must be done to spread a favorable American propaganda and evidently the country work as described by Markham only within a month, is the most appealing proposition that has been put before the Russian authorities so far as the Y. M. C. A. is concerned.

The first work for the men will consist of a three months' educational trip on the Volga river, arranged by the Russian government. The trip will be sent with the workers as can be overcome. Slides and educational films on agriculture and dairying, poultry, and on general farming will be taken on the demonstration trip.

Although Mr. Markham will be sorely missed by Rock county, where he has been a most tireless worker for the betterment of farm conditions, the entire community joins in wishing him success in his new work, the importance of which cannot be overestimated. Previous to his work as county agent Mr. Markham has been a successful secretary and his work among the boys was recognized as great. There is no greater service that a county worker can render in the world than to go to Russia and in accepting the offer Mr. Markham did so primarily for patriotic reasons.

Deal Not Closed for Proposed Factory on Spring Brook Property

Despite rumors and emphatic statements that the deal was closed, the proposed factory on Spring Brook property has not been closed and is still in operation here. The deal has not been closed and it is a bare possibility that it may not be owing to opposition on the part of certain citizens.

The Gazette has been kept thoroughly informed of the progress of negotiations which have been going on between Janesville interests and the directors of the General Motors company of Detroit and New York, and states with full authority that the deal has not been closed.

As soon as the deal is closed, it is a possibility it may never develop.

Premature statements, given official sanction, which have been going on, have seriously hindered the final closing of the entire negotiations. Certain interests have placed obstacles in the way of the deal, and until these are overcome there is no certainty of the General Motors company fulfilling their end of the contract.

As soon as the final papers are signed a full statement will be given to the public, but it has been thought unwise to print what might turn out to be a fiasco, and rumors of which have already caused land prices to soar to unheard of heights, which may ultimately result in keeping the industry away from Janesville in the end.

There are also other complications which do not arise from the purchase of land which may result in blocking the deal, and have to do with the legal transfer of the property in question, and living up to the agreement, which is still pending.

ISSUES WARNING TO UNDESIRABLE PEOPLE

Municipal Court Judge Tells Rockford Man to Tell His Friends That They Are Not Wanted in This City.

Judge Maxfield of the municipal court sent a short and instructive message to the citizens of Rockford who are in the habit of coming to this city to get drunk. William Johnson of Rockford, who has been in the city for some time, has been paid $25 and costs or served thirty days in jail.

Johnson was arrested yesterday on a charge of being drunk and disorderly. He was brought into court this morning and he asserted that he just came to Janesville to see the city. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness after a few minutes and was handed $25 and costs or thirty days.

Judge Maxfield then took the opportunity to send a message of warning to other Rockforders who are coming to Janesville to get a drink. The judge told Johnson to tell his friends when he got back home that they were not wanted in the city, and that a warm reception awaited them should they appear in the municipal court.

Stanley Turrell of Mineral Point was the next customer to appear before the court. Turrell immediately started to tell the judge how the court should be run. He wanted to ask all the questions and let Judge Maxfield answer them. He first told that he could have one if he desired it, he suddenly changed his mind. He pleaded guilty to drunkenness and was assessed $25 and costs or twenty days with Sheriff Whipple.

Appeal Is Being Made for Students to Enter the Rock County Training School Next September.

With the term of the Rock County training school drawing to a close, Principal P. J. Lowth and County Superintendent O. J. Ansdell have begun a campaign to secure students for next year. Under Wisconsin law, the training school can also accept for the one-year course those girls who possess two or more full years of high school credit. These persons will be accepted only with the full consent and co-operation of their principals. They should show some aptitude for teaching and should also desire to be of some service in the world.

There will be an entirely new group of students in September. The first year of the school begins September third. Six weeks' summer session begins June 17th. Further particulars may be obtained from Principal Frank J. Lowth.

How Cloves Are Cured.
In the Spice Islands the cloves are sometimes cured by being smoked over a wood fire until they assume a deep brown color, when the further drying is accomplished by the sun. Occasionally the buds are scalded before being dried. If bright sunny days prevail artificial heat may be dispensed with and the buds sun-dried from first to last. The crop loses about 60 per cent in drying.

of Camp Lee, written expressly for production in cantonment markets. The initial attempt of the United States in the encouragement of the young dramatist. When first presented at Camp Lee, May 16, the play proved an instant hit.

Although investigation has shown that the soldier's taste runs to farces and musicals, the government is about to experiment by booking a classical play. Moliere's "The Imaginary Invalid" is thought to be the most obvious one. This type of entertainment is far from popular with the soldiers, but for presenter the piece possesses a distinct farcical appeal. Its production by the Coburn players is awaited with interest.

The kind of plays possible for production in the Liberty Theaters, and the cantonment playhouses, is limited. The government is studying various causes, and it is impossible to judge of their suitability by ordinary standards. Experience has shown that the soldier appreciates comedies, farces and musical plays. Melodramas and plays dealing with the war are little liked, except in rare instances.

The War Relocation Authority's commission on training camp activities has appointed a play-reviewing committee whose duty it will be to select the plays to be booked and to decide upon past successes and even new plays, with a view to their production. Lack of aesthetic value is not to influence the committee in its selection of plays, as entertainment only is to be the basis for the rendering of judgment.

Heart and Home Problems

BY ALBERTA THOMPSON

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO MRS. THOMPSON, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I am a girl seventeen years old. Both my parents are dead and I live with my aunt and uncle. I do almost all of the housework and cooking. Now I do not object to doing this work in return for my room and board, but I do not think it is fair that I should stay in the house and do all of the time and never have a bit of fun like other girls. I know that if I were working outside the house that I could earn enough money to keep myself and I would have more time for myself. Even if I were doing housework for a stranger I would earn plenty of money. But my aunt will not allow me to work and she will not pay me for what I do. Shall I leave home and try to get along by myself?

I would not advise any young girl to leave a good home and especially one who has had a little worldly experience. You seem to have had that. You think you ought to have your own living and that you will be glad to help around the house and at the same time pay board. If she permits you to go to work do not continue to do so much around the house as you have been doing.

I think he is mighty nice and believe I could learn to love him. He is wealthy, owns a fine home and owns a lot of other property. I am just a working girl and sometimes I feel he could never love me and I try to keep from loving him.

What shall I do? Shall I try to keep from loving him? If so, how should I resist him? Jack is a friend until he asks you to be one. The fact that you are a working girl will not make any difference if he loves you. Don't be afraid of him now because it doesn't amount to much if the character of the man himself is not desirable.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: Please tell me why my mother won't let me go out with other girls and boys. I am seventeen years of age. Don't you think I am old enough to go out occasionally? My girl friends often ask me to go out riding, but I am always kept in. I can't see why I am treated this way, for I try to be everything a young lady should be. Do you think it right?

Your mother shows good judgment in not letting you go riding with young people. If you wait until you are eighteen before going with boys, you will never be so much of a flirt as most girls of seventeen are permitted to have boy friends. I think it is all right for a girl of that age to entertain a boy in her home occasionally, but do not think she should go with boys to any extent.

Dear Mrs. Thompson: I have been invited to a shower for a baby. What are some suitable gifts to take, not too expensive?

A READER.
Little washable booties made of linen, knitted sweater coat, a dainty nightgown, a pair of socks, a embroidered pillow cover for the tiny pillow, a miniature hot water bottle with a woolen cover in the shape of a doll or pet animal would be acceptable.

Observations of a War Horse

My Dear Niece: I look like a haberdasher's advertisement that had been retouched by a Bohemian artist. His natty blacked suit fitted easily and exactly matched his silk socks, and he had been retouched and retouched into the suggestive freshness of newly returned laundry. Even the tiger fly in his buttonhole held its mottled head up with early morning vigor, and his eyes were as clear as crystal. I was pleased through which they looked. Also, I noticed how nearly they were of a color with the tortoise shell rims in which the lenses sat so snugly. A drooping black silk tie supported the tiger fly's efforts to represent the Bohemian note in the combination and kept the color harmony perfect by matching the dots that toned its flaming surface.

Jack entered smiling and holding out his hand. "Hello," he greeted, winking as he held my hand. "Where have you been all this time? You look as wise as a ground owl and as clean as a white-washed politician. Nobody could possibly be as wise as you look. Sit down and let me about yourself."

I must interrupt myself to tell you that Jack had been in my office when Louise bawled in. They went away most simultaneously, so I knew that he wanted to talk and had not come simply to be welcomed home. And I had a kind of psychic hunch that he wanted to talk about you. When he began elaborately to talk about other things, I knew my hunch was right.

Louise served as a kind of conversational appurtenance. We dished up William Howard as a fish course—which was wholly appropriate, seeing that he is a cold-blooded animal—and the ruffled Reginald's patriotism and her gait as a meat course.

For this time Jack figured that I was sufficiently impressed with his casual interest in you, so he inquired about your welfare. After that I did the talking for some minutes. And I did not talk about you. He did that and eagerly, when he feared to lose you as a subject. Evidently he admires you as an achievement, but you as a woman, alive and vivid. He was boyishly sweet in his admiration and a little pathetic, too, for he could see that his feeling for you is bound up in some way with a problem that troubles him.

It came out as he stood at the door.

HEALTH TALKS

BY WILLIAM BRADY, M. D.

LETTERS MAY BE ADDRESSED TO DR. BRADY, IN CARE OF THE GAZETTE

Same Old Story

A letter from a lady: "I am a woman of 44 and am passing through the change of life. Have been this way for nearly a year. It is sometimes difficult to walk, because I feel as if something were pressing me down. I have a sense of time, much the stomach, and all the fatness in what I eat. My appetite is good. I asked a doctor about the change and he said it was coming on and he said my liver was the cause of my trouble. He gave me some tablets, but I was restless at night and sleep only in word (illegible). Is there any special food I should eat? Thank you for the help and pleasure I have in reading your articles in our little newspaper.

Note the old almanac features—she is passing through the change of life. Her appetite is excellent, some doctor determines what was the matter told her it was her liver. Same old story. The lady isn't to blame for her liver, but a good physician should be ashamed of himself to drag in the liver on any such evidence.

Why do the middle aged women insist upon attributing any disturbance of health to the innocent factor of age? Just because some old almanac specifies in bygone times—back in the neolithic period—being upon that little old woman.

Change of life is a physiological, normal event, and never a disease, no matter of any disturbance of health, no matter what well meaning, but ignorant, old doctors think about it or what overworked doctor may have muttered in his head. Change of life is a natural far too often to conceal the cardio-vascular degeneration of middle age—heart muscle failure, hardening of the arteries, high blood pressure, Bright's disease. It is far too often held accountable for symptoms in reality caused by cancer.

We are willing to compromise with the women, and admit that they may be entitled to a little nervousness or irritability or other trivial condition at the age of forty-five or fifty years, when they try to use the change of life as a cloak for all the ills of middle age, we simply grow weary of the old showman story.

In this department we haven't any "all day" at all for Sairey Gamp. And we do wish the women would tack this up over their kitchen cabinets.

The change of life never injures a woman's health. But one in every five women over forty-five years of age is doomed to have cardio-vascular degeneration or cancer, and the sooner she finds it out the less we shall hear from Sairey's friends about the change of life.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS.
Children All Have Large Tonsils.
My little girl, aged 4 years, has quite large tonsils. She never has colds, seems strong and well, sleeps with open windows always, and plays out all day. Is there any danger in neglecting the tonsils? (Mrs. H. D. ANSWER—All young children have large tonsils, and therefore you have nothing to worry about. It is only when the tonsils are diseased that they are a danger. If you have a sore throat, mouth breathing and then treatment is necessary.

EVERYDAY ETIQUETTE

It is extremely uncivil to keep a caller waiting while one changes every detail of one's dress.

Mary B.: Since you offered to make the first advances following the renewal of your friendship after a quarrel with the young man, I would suggest that you include him among others in an invitation to spend the evening at your home. Provide simple refreshments and arrange a little something to entertain them. This will evidence a willingness to be friendly.

Mrs. R. L.: At a simple church wedding which takes place at noon it is considered proper for the bride to wear a white suit. The maid of honor should be dressed quietly, preferably, preferably some soft afternoon dress. The bride does not carry flowers, but may wear a corsage bouquet, and if she wishes to do so, she may carry a prayer book.

FRIED RECIPES
Rice and Date Pudding—(from above menu)—Two eggs, one-half cup sugar, one pint milk, one cup cornstarch, one tablespoon butter, one-half pound dates.
Beat eggs and sugar to a cream, add milk and cornstarch mixed with a little water, then add the rice and dates. Bake in a quick oven until set and brown.

Old-Fashioned Johnnycake—Mix and sift two cups meal and one teaspoon salt. Stir in one cup boiling water to make a thick drop batter. Add cold milk to make a pour batter. Cook by tablespoons on a hot greased frying pan like ordinary johnnycakes.

French Artichokes—Remove the coarse leaves and cut stem close to the leaves or sepals. Cook in boiling salted water for one hour. Drain and serve with a dressing of lemon juice and butter. It will take from forty to fifty minutes. Put back the leaves and with a sharp fruit spoon take out the purple flower. Season with butter, cream, salt and pepper. Add cold milk to make a pour batter. Cook by tablespoons on a hot greased frying pan like ordinary johnnycakes.

BREADS.
Mixture Bread—One pound potatoes one pound rolled oats, one pound white cornmeal, one tablespoon lard, one cup milk, one-half cup sugar, two teaspoons yeast, one tablespoon salt.
Peel and boil potatoes well covered with water; when soft mash in potato water and add to the mixture. Knead it down stiff with as much white flour as it will take. Let rise twice. When it has increased to double its size, put in pans, let rise again and bake.

It takes but a short time for the rising and you will find it makes finer bread combining the cereals if this course is followed.

Liberty Bread—Cook two cups rolled oats, add one cup mashed potatoes, dissolve one cake yeast in one-half cup lukewarm water, add to the oats and potatoes; also add one tablespoon shortening, two tablespoons molasses, one cup lukewarm milk, one teaspoon salt; then add two cups rice flour and enough wheat flour to finish the batter.

The Daily Novelette

THE COLONEL'S FAIR.

"Whenever I hear anything about paper boxes it always reminds me of the farm I had out in the West," said Colonel Harta Beaton. Just how paper boxes could be connected with a farm was quite beyond the wildest imaginations of the Novelette to Nature Club's members. Several of them were fortunate to find nearby magazines in which to become interested while the others were too polite to get and walk out.

"I had the prettiest farm for hundreds of miles around," continued the Colonel. "The folks would come from all over the country to see it. I had a big house, a big barn, a big hayrack, and my products were the talk of the world! The County Fair asked me to exhibit my products, and I won many of the blue ribbons. Fine specimens they were, too."

Why, once I grew a baby carrot that was so long that several of my men hewed it up and we used it for a bridge over a forty-foot stream. "Then another time, I grew a wonderful watermelon, so large that a wealthy farmer bought it from me for a large sum of money and he made four canoes out of it, bah Jove!"

At this point the members walked over to the piano in order to "sing the speaker down" but the Colonel was warming up to his subject. In fact, he was just about to narrate the most interesting part, so he failed to hear the music.

"But these were small triumphs in the agricultural world for me, as you know. I planted the seed from my last year's crop. Well, somehow, the last year's crop didn't seem to grow, and I was disappointed. The largest I ever seen in that country!"

"Well, well!" chorused the remaining members.

What are the peculiarly masculine and what the peculiarly feminine virtues and vices?

We fell to talking on that subject the other day, and found considerable food for argument therein.

In the first place, both sexes claimed to be majority stockholders in the quality of unselfishness.

Which Sex is More Unselfish? The men declared that while the unselfishness of mothers has been rather over pressed, and not enough has been said about the unselfishness of the father, who without so powerfully a natural instinct to force him to it, devotes his whole life to making a home for his family and giving his children a better chance than he had.

Conceding was the next quality mentioned, and the promptness with which each sex admitted that it was lacking in that quality, was quite touching. I cannot see, there can be two sides to looking at that. We have all known plain girls who were humble in their opinion of themselves. But who ever knew a man, however attractive, who did not have a high opinion of himself, and who did not think that every woman he met needed to be guarded against falling in love with him? Women may exaggerate their charms when they have them, but they have them or not.

Humor. A sense of humor was another quality which both sexes claimed superiority in. Let me prove my lack of

Notes on Red Cross Work

(Arranged by Mrs. Abbie Helms.)

It is an interesting sight to see a box of hospital garments prepared ready for shipment and to know the process of packing, necessary before shipment. The boxes are made to order, three feet by two feet, and are of a specified thickness according to a standard prescribed by the department. They are lined with a waterproof paper which has a fabric woven into it to make it strong. The garments brought in from the auxiliaries are first checked off in the check room, where they are given out. Then they are taken to the main work room, where each garment is carefully inspected and finished up, if anything is needed to bring it to standard. Then each is carefully folded over a pattern pastedboard, which keeps them a specified size, so they will pack without any waste of space. The trousers of the pajamas are folded into the jackets, making a bundle of the suit. One box contained 30 suits. Another contained 200 hospital shirts. White socks and the yarn all be sent for making them when it is figured out how much will be required.

Knitted articles have been received from Footville which included 20 sweaters, seven pairs of socks, one helmet and six pairs of wristlets. From Edgerton there was received 40 pairs of socks, three scarves, two pairs of wristlets, and two helmets and caps.

Surgical Dressings Department: That it takes quite a quantity of material to run this room is shown by the fact that a recent check for $175 was made for a shipment of gauze for this work. Fifteen thousand yards of this material was used in filling the quota for the compresses made last month. About 100 girls met on Johnstown and Rock Prairie, Footville, and Johnstown Center. The eighth grade of the Garfield school also sent in some very nice work.

The knitting department received 70 pounds of sweater yard Saturday and all went out Monday afternoon. The quota for the chapter, including the auxiliaries, is 500 sweaters by the last of June. There is now enough yarn to make this number. If the knitting is faithfully done by the workers, the cost of each sweater at the present price of yarn is from $1.50 to $2, according to quality used. The quota for next month will be 100 sweaters, and the yarn will be sent for making them when it is figured out how much will be required.

MANY NOTABLE EVENTS OCCURRED DURING THE MONTH JUST CLOSED

By Ellis B. Usher.

Milwaukee, June 1.—May closed with some notable things to its credit and this last week seemed to be crowded with them. It has seemed as if the whistles were blowing constantly, for beside our own 3,000 select men who leave for camp, several hundred enlistments for the navy made a record for that branch of the service, and trains from up state having been passing. Memorial Day was celebrated as never before both in numbers and manner. Something like 1,000 troops in line, Wisconsin men from Camp Center and the newly organized state guard, gave a stirring military air to the day, and the people on the streets were, thousands of them, touched with new and deeper sensations of the sacrifices and solemnity of the war as they thought of our Wisconsin boys in France who, if not already engaged, soon will be called upon to help in turning back the latest German drive.

Not should we forget that after numerous attempts within a year Mr. Roosevelt had at last been "heard in our midst." In Madison Gov. Philipp was a figure at his meeting, which regarded that it was Gov. Philipp who introduced Mr. Roosevelt a year ago last September to the meeting of League of Wisconsin Municipalities at Madison, when he made a speech similar to those of this week and nearly broke up the league. Milwaukee promptly withdrew because it charged that the league was being used for political purposes. Mr. Roosevelt had his eye on Wisconsin for some time, and he is likely to knock the governor's head, if he isn't more careful what he says.

It has been hard for German sympathizers in this country to learn that a traitor people are an untrustworthy and that for that very reason their anger, once aroused, is more apt to be violent when the cause the invokes is one of sympathy or hospitality. For a long time, while in public meetings in Wisconsin German sympathizers were openly denouncing this principle, Americans did not believe and did not believe their own eyes and ears. But the awakening is coming and some of the trust to was pro-German sympathizers of the pit into which they were walking are now as helpless to save anything for even the thoughtless German sympathizer as he is to save himself. The espionage net was torn by German war, waged with treachery and devilry are on our own peaceful soil, and the German agent of the United States has directed his assistants to enforce it, and to bring to his attention all cases that justify proceedings to revoke naturalization papers. The man thus stripped of citizenship liable to internment, his property liable to confiscation, and when the war is over he will not be tolerated anywhere. In the case of German sympathizers born here their conviction of sedition or of treasonable practices will automatically strip them of citizenship, property and all the rights that they have enjoyed. Citizenship is a reciprocal obligation. The way in which German names are recently disappearing from streets, hotels, newspapers, clubs and schools all about us here in Wisconsin is only the first evidence of a real feeling that anything and everything German has become obnoxious. As our country grows this feeling will intensify day by day. It has never been necessary to appeal to their prejudices. The German agents from von Bernstorff to Burger, high and low, have been to the point of being rubbed into American minds the most trusting among them is finally aroused. Everything German from beer to pretzels, from freedom to German language, is now being regarded with the certainty of doom from the United States. It is said that they have inserted upon forcing this issue in the past, but they have done it and Burger's 10,000 votes, gathered from every German precinct in Wisconsin, is the incontrovertible evidence that the jury of outraged people is now a large number of loyal Americans with German names, and it will be unpleasant for a great many names are at the greater badge of honor that is so plentiful in the American battle line in France. It is to be regretted, but the difficulty, now will only intensify the difficulty.

In several of the congressional districts of this state steps are already being taken for republican opposition to the present incumbent. The movement and debate action has been taken by the constituents of Messrs. Cooper, Davidson and Nelson, and a meeting has been called for the district that looks early and belligerent action there. The Milwaukee districts are certain to give our two yellow brethren a shaking up, but no definite promise of success is in sight as yet. There is only one man in the delegation who deserves to be returned. That is Chas. D. But the chances are that through divided action they will all go back. That will be the logical result of the election of Leinro to the senate. It is his vote on the McInerney resolution was good "fascist." It will be difficult to dominant the same class of votes in the other Wisconsin representatives. I am told there are some very influential Republicans who have said in the past that the German vote was a mistake. This has been realized by some large interests that have found the outside business of the state unfavorably affected. That sort of a result, like the unfortunate results brought about by a minority of German propagandists, is more easily accomplished than resistance.

led. The easiest way the Republicans of Wisconsin can clean the board this fall. But I don't expect to see it done, because there's only one way to do it—sincerely lay aside politics.

The secretary of war has authorized through the Official Bulletin the announcement that in all institutions of college grade in the country which shall enroll 100 or more able bodied students over the age of 18, the government will provide instructors and equipment for military training. It is planned to work out the details in time for the beginning of the next school year in September. This new policy aims, so the announcement states, to develop as a great military asset the large body of young men in colleges and to prevent unnecessary and wasteful depletion of the colleges through indiscriminate volunteering, by offering the students a definite and immediate status in the United States army. They will be required to voluntarily enroll, and having done so will be under obligation to serve Uncle Sam; but will not be called to service before they are 21 unless there is compelling earlier necessity.

FOOTVILLE

Footville, May 31.—Mr. and Mrs. John Marty and Mr. and Mrs. Saraay and daughters, were in Janesville on Memorial day.

Harvey Griffen came from North Prairie, near Waukegan, on Thursday, and will remain as the guest of Dr. and Mrs. Lacey over Sunday.

Griffen is a brother of the late Miss Daisy Griffen.

Mrs. Cecil Limber and baby daughter, came down from Evansville, Ind., on Thursday morning and accompanied her sisters, Mrs. Peter Palmer and Miss Ruth Berryman, to Juda, where they spent the day. Charlie Fisher taking them in his auto.

Mrs. Nettie Horton came down from Madison and is the guest of her sister, Mrs. Minnie Pepper.

Mrs. Lizette Cain came down from Evansville on Wednesday to see her mother, Mrs. K. Harper, whom we regret to say, is not in the best of health.

F. J. Pepper and E. A. Silverthorn were at the lake fishing on Thursday.

Dr. G. W. Snyder of Baraboo, arrived in town on the noon train on Thursday. He came to visit his people, who he buried in the Grove cemetery. He also made several short calls on old friends in town. George is an old country boy and all were glad to welcome him among them again. Owing to business cares his stay was brief, and he returned on the evening train.

Mrs. Ray Owen and daughters came down from Madison for a visit with relatives in town. Her husband, Captain Ray Owen, is "somewhere in France."

Mrs. Cecil Limber returned to her home in Evansville on the Thursday evening train.

Mrs. Walter Honeysett spent Thursday in Beloit.

Memorial day services were held at the central church at 1:30 p. m. on Thursday. The church had been beautifully decorated with the national colors, the work being done by Mrs. E. W. Wexley, Mrs. Minnie Downing, Mrs. E. H. Mattice and Miss Crystal Snyder. The large community national flag hung at the rear end of the auditorium and the beautiful community service flag with its twenty-four stars occupied a conspicuous place on the wall behind the pulpit and choir loft. Rev. White of the M. E. church delivered the address of the day and held the audience almost spellbound. He chose for his subject: "The Progress of Liberty," which he handled in a most efficient and able manner, showing his own familiarity with the current events of each decade, beginning with the reformation and pointing out the cause, both real and apparent of the several wars, paying a high tribute of respect to the heroes in each conflict. Of the four remaining soldiers of the Civil war in this locality only two remain, viz. Mr. Baldridge and George Gook. W. B. Richards was sick in bed, therefore being unable to be present, and Mr. Witham was also unable to attend. Patriotic songs were sung, the choir being made up of members from each school. The teachers in the village school and pupils attended in a body. At the close of the services the pupils were "forward," each taking a bouquet from the mass of flowers which had been provided, with which to decorate the graves of the soldiers in the Grove cemetery. A bouquet of panicles had also been provided for the conveyance

FRANCE PUNISHES HER DISLOYAL

How France punishes her disloyal is shown in the case of these two men, who were connected with the famous Bonnet Rouge scandal. Leymarie, formerly high official and chief of the secret service under the Malvy ministry, was sentenced to serve two years in prison and pay a fine of 1,000 francs. Vercasson, his accomplice, got two years and was fined 5,000 francs.

of all to the cemetery, where they were joined by the pupils of the Red Brick school, with Miss Ella Rote, their teacher, and together they marched around, strewing flowers on the graves of the twenty soldiers who lie buried there. It would seem that the shadow of the present war, with its ever-increasing casualty list has cast a gloom over the entire nation, and a spirit of seriousness and solemnity seems to be prevalent and, in a measure, is bringing back as it were, Memorial day into its own, and turning it from being almost a gala day or a day of sports, back to which it was originally designed to be, a day of reverent observance, sacred to the memory of the fallen heroes of the Civil war.

Frank Ashby and wife came over from Oshkosh on Thursday evening and took the latter's father, W. B. Richards, home with them, where they might care for him until he is able to care for himself.

Mrs. Gottschalk and daughter, Mrs. Bratzke, were in Beloit on Memorial day.

W. J. Owen visited the cemetery in Janesville on Thursday afternoon.

HIS DRIVER

By MILDRED WHITE.

Glen Truesdale, alighting at the village station, looked quickly about for the usual hotel conveyance. It was a mule and a half to the center of the town, and his time there was limited. No customary bus presented itself to his vision; impatiently he strode up the roadway, and there, just at the bend, waited a large automobile. In the driver's seat sat the most beautiful girl he had ever seen.

Truesdale was debating with himself whether he might dare to ask of her the information the brusque station agent denied, when the girl leaned forward.

"Auto for Lyndenville?" she asked.

"Auto mean—" he blurted out, "that you would drive me there?"

The girl pushed open the car door. "That is my business," she answered. With alacrity he placed his valise in the machine and seated himself by the driver. Her gauntleted hands were upon the wheel.

"Where?" she asked briefly.

Truesdale answered with the house name of his destination. There was no invitation for further remark in her businesslike manner.

Once she turned to smile at him. "Great morning, isn't it?" she said. To Glen Truesdale it was a "great morning."

"There's the 'great' business block ahead," laughed the girl, "and your office the center one. Twenty-five cents, please."

"So soon," said Truesdale. His tone bespoke disappointment.

The driver flung open the door, and even as he descended she prepared to whirl her car about in departure. Then inspiration came to him. There was so little of interesting variety in his tread-mill life, this glorious morning spin had seemed like an hour from his boyhood. The car and the services of this lovely, baffling maid were miraculously for hire.

"This afternoon," said Truesdale, "I would like to be carried over to the next town; could you do it?"

The girl considered. "Yes," she said; "and there will be other passengers. Call for you at two."

The other passengers were tucked into the back seat when she arrived. Silently he resented the presence of the two old ladies, but on their swinging way again, he was glad. The driver seemed to feel free now, to include him in the merry, descriptive remarks she made to the others. Back, with the station lights gleaming through evening dusk, Glen Truesdale lingered beside the big car.

"It will be necessary for me to pay a weekly visit here for some time," he told the girl; "may I ask you to drive me each Wednesday?"

For a moment she regarded him beneath her soft cap brim.

"Certainly," she agreed impersonally. It was altogether strange and inexplicable how that winsome, girlish face haunted him through the days which followed. Mockingly it smiled from perplexing papers; resentfully it seemed to withdraw at his own returning smile. Unaccountable anger filled him—that "she" should be carrying people about, here and there, at so much a mile, and why? And what was it all to him, he who did not even know her name.

"My name is Glen Truesdale," he abruptly informed her upon one of their later rides. "I would like to know yours."

"Margaret Carstairs," she replied in reply.

This last ride down through the early twilight, was one of enchantment. Truesdale dared hardly glance at the glowing face near his own, lest he must tell the girl how lovely she was, and forever break the charm. Instinctively, he knew that one step out of his stipulated role of "customer only," would be the end. But how to see her under other and more promising conditions—that was the problem. Then, because he must know more of her, he sought the station agent.

"Whom did you say she was?" he asked casually. "The young woman who drives the auto-bus?"

"Don't know much about 'em," the agent replied. "Come here a couple of months ago and rented the old Gage place. Carstairs, the name. Her husband started to run the auto trips, when he was called to war. Then, she took it up. Pretty plucky."

Truesdale's heart was swimming. He stepped out into the night. Her husband—and he had gone—to war. Yes, she was pretty plucky. And Glen Truesdale came back to the country town no more.

The girl's eyes grew wistful as Wednesday after Wednesday passed. But the haunting eyes looking back from Glen's paper were mocking ones. When business forced him again to the country his heart whitened with fear that she would be there, but when he saw her his heart quickened in joyous response. Speechlessly he stood gazing into her reproachful face.

"You have been away—so long," she said. Disappointment was in her tone. Business method seemed to have vanished. "When I heard of your husband being away at war—" Truesdale began.

"My husband?" cried Margaret Carstairs. Then she laughed. "They do get things mixed up here!" she said. "It is my brother who went to war. Mother did not want me to take his place, but—"

Glen Truesdale jumped into the seat at her side. "But I'm mighty glad you did," he said fervently.

Natural "Water Barrel."

Perhaps the most notable specimen of self-watering plants is the so-called "water barrel" which, of about the size and shape of an ordinary beer keg, is in fact nothing more or less than a living water tank. Its whole interior is composed of storage cells so admirably arranged that the pulp which they form contains something like 95 per cent of pure water.

WRESTLER WITH NAME LIKE BRAND OF BISCUITS TURNED DOWN BY UNCLE SAM

Word of Different Meanings.

A "rookie" is a man who is learning to be a soldier—the "raw recruit." The term is English. The word "rook" used to be used for a variety of things. A gambling den was a rook. So was a barracks. The frequenter of either became a "rookie."

Good in Cheerful Voice.

Cultivate a cheerful voice as a safeguard against the wrong things. It is not easy to complain or to utter doleful forecasts in a blithe and breezy tone, and moreover, the habit of tone affects the habit of thought.

BEST IN THE LONG RUN

Who Began Trench Warfare?

THE trench, which always encircled the Roman castra, or camp, was brought to France by Julius Caesar and used by him on the very battlefield where to-day the Allies and the Huns have 25,000 miles of trenches.

With rings of trenches, gradually drawn smaller, probably the first modern trench warfare, the Turks in 1667 took Candia.

Vauban, builder of Verdun, in 1673 employed the first parallel trenches, the system of the present war.

Defeat, not foresight, turned the Germans to trench warfare. But Goodrich never had to dig in.

Since twenty-two years ago Goodrich manufactured the first American pneumatic automobile tire, Goodrich has driven ahead to the big, graceful, masterful—

GOODRICH SERVICE VALUE TIRES

But whether Goodrich was revolutionizing tire manufacture by bringing forth the first American clinch tire—

Or originating the one practical non-skid, the cross-bar, safety-tread, or tough black tread rubber—

Goodrich built tires to one end—SERVICE VALUE—that they are worth to the motorist on his car and on the road in COMFORT of an easier riding car—ECONOMY in gasoline saved,—and LONG MILEAGE.

Small difference whether you buy GOODRICH SILVERTOWN CORDS, or BLACK SAFETY TREADS, you get SERVICE VALUE TIRES.

CO-OPERATION WITH THRESHERMEN WILL SAVE MUCH WHEAT

Special Threshing Committees Will be Organized by State Food Administration to Cooperate With the Farmers.

Realizing the very important part played by the threshermen in the harvesting and conserving of the wheat crop, the food administration has established a special grain threshing division, the better to render every assistance to the threshermen in the performance of their duties this year.

Special threshing committees will be set up once organized in each county, and headquarters, accessible at all times to farmers and threshermen, will be established. The county threshing committees will render every assistance possible, paying particular attention to the problems involving the use of machines, securing of necessary expert mechanical help in connection with the department of labor, securing of a sufficient supply of fuel in cooperation with the fuel administration, and assistance in obtaining sufficient needed repair parts and supplies to last the threshermen through the grain season.

The cooperation of the threshing machine manufacturers has been secured by the government and all have promised to do everything they can to help promote this work. The government will place competent threshermen's assistants at the disposal of these county committees and these men will examine any machine which these county committees ask to have examined. If there is time enough any sufficient threshermen's assistants are available, all machines will be examined.

These threshermen's assistants will be skilled men who are capable of locating anything that needs repairs or adjustment in order that the threshing machine may work at its greatest efficiency. Their duty will be to help the threshermen, and every threshermen should welcome the visit of one of these threshermen's assistants.

THE TRUTH--and the PROOF

"WORDS AND PROMISES ARE ONLY GOOD WHEN BACKED UP BY DEEDS."

This axiom is just as true today as it was when Socrates uttered it hundreds of years ago.

And I attribute my success as a specialist principally to the fact that I never attempt to treat cases that are incurable, and second that I back up my claims by absolute proof.

HERE IS THE PROOF:

I am now in perfect health and weigh 180 pounds, which is more than I ever weighed in my life. I am certainly glad that I came to you and feel that I am owing you a great deal of money. You may refer to me at any time. Anyone desiring proof of your ability.

SUCCESS OF WEIGHING BABIES IS ASSURED

Madison, Wis., June 1.—The success of the weighing and measuring campaign which was started by the Child Welfare department of the Woman's Committee, state council of defense, a month ago, has far exceeded the most sanguine expectations. Up to date sixty-five out of the seventy-one counties in Wisconsin have reported activity, and though no formal reports have been asked for as yet, it is known that in several districts the work of lifting, weighing and measuring every child under six has been completed and the local chairmen are awaiting further orders of the "follow-up" work which is to be done in Children's Year.

Wisconsin is far ahead of most of the other states. This is due to the fact that in planning the work it was decided to issue a county card and record as well as the government cards. Owing to the pressure on the government printing facilities, the government cards were slow in coming and the committee where the committees were ready to go to work the data were filed on the county cards and later will be inscribed on the government cards, a task involving a great number of clerical workers, but one that will not fail for lack of volunteers.

Up to date there have been sent out from the office of the woman's committee in Madison, 187,348 county cards and 237,669 government cards and orders for additional cards are being filled daily.

One of the most encouraging results of the campaign has been the interest of the mothers, who have almost invariably been deeply interested in the movement. Chairmen report that many mothers are asking to have the weighing and measuring done regularly at stated intervals and that it be accompanied by expert advice on the care of the children.

George E. Fatzinger Conducts A Model Jewelry Establishment

"The Little Store Around The Corner, Next To The Post Office"
Has Grown In A Short Time To Be One Of The Biggest Retail Jewelry Stores In Southern Wisconsin.

Merit will win. Starting in the retail jewelry business, in the present location, just six short years ago George E. Fatzinger has built up a patronage that might well be the envy of many another business man. His envy of many other business men. His jewelry business for the past twenty years in Janesville, Mr. Fatzinger was well equipped to open a store of his own and the rapid expansion of his trade justified in every way his idea that the public of Southern Wisconsin would adequately support a jewelry store modeled after the lines he had in mind.

"The Little Store Around the Corner, Next to the Post Office" occupies the very small space of 18 feet by 22 feet, but it contains the richest stock in town in a similar space, unless perhaps it should be one of the bank vaults. Here one may find anything in the jewelry line that might be desired. An unusually large stock is displayed, everything from a modest stick-pin to large diamonds of the finest water.

Another feature which has contributed to the success of the Fatzinger store is the manufacturing and repair department. Work in the repair department is conducted on a strict 24-hour basis, and work is finished positively when promised—there are no long delays at Fatzinger's. Here you may have jewelry designed, jewelry manufactured, diamonds or other stones set, watches cleaned, oiled and repaired; mounting work of a special nature, old jewelry made over into new styles, etc.

As rapidly as new designs and new styles in jewelry are created by manufacturers they are given full representation in this large stock, so that you may always be assured of finding at Fatzinger's the very latest effects.

In the matter of pricing Fatzinger has been modest and prices are not high as compared with others. It has been often said that you could "do better at Fatzinger's."

These things have been outlined without any desire to boast, but merely to present to the public a few facts about a store that holds a firm place with a great many people in Southern Wisconsin.
